Today's Game

A lot of dreams are being fulfilled today with the first visit of the South Carolina Gamecocks to Clemson. Upper State football fans in general and Tiger rooters in particular have visioned for many years a home and home series between these two big state rivals. It now becomes a reality.

"Big Thursday" was buried last year and many were inclined to say the game between the Tigers and Gamecocks would lose a lot of appeal by being transferred away from the State Fair. There was a belief the game wouldn't draw when moved from the center of the state.

But Clemson-South Carolina fans are the most rabid in the world and ticket sales among IPTAY and Gamecock Club members boomed and all 43,309 reserved seats were sold and 7,000 general admission tickets were placed on sale. A pretty, crisp autumn day will assure a record crowd of over 50,000 for a football game in South Carolina.

Even though every game thus far has been played in Columbia, the series is steeped with tradition. Several counties made the Thursday of fair week a legal holiday; downtown business ceased during the game; it was the fall Easter show for the ladies; the governor, General Assembly members and other state politicians made sure nothing interfered with their attendance; and farmers let the fall plowing go. About the only thing that was of any concern to anyone was getting a ticket.

But the general feeling among the Clemson people of the state was that things could be better. They would like to have the Gamecocks visit Clemson every other year, the main reason being it seemed only fair to have a home and home series since the game has grown to such great proportions since World War II.

The series started in 1896 with South Carolina winning, 12-6. However, the Tigers won the four in a row before Carolina won the 1902 game and the series was stopped until 1909. Since that year the two have met 51 consecutive times. Altogether, Clemson and South Carolina have met 57 times with today being the 58th time.

Although Coach Frank Howard has been involved in 20 Carolina games with a 8-10-2 mark, Howard and Coach Warren Giese of the Gamecocks have faced each other just four times with Howard holding a 3 to 1 edge and his three wins have all been shutouts.

Head Coach Frank Howard

About The Coach . . .

For Frank Howard, this is a year of uncertainty. The veteran of many football wars says he has never started a season when he had so many problems and people were expecting so much.

The Tigers are a "Top 20" selection in just about every pre-season poll, but this is nothing new to Howard. Losing as many boys as were lost last year is something out of the ordinary.

But Howard is starting his 30th season on the Clemson staff and 21st as head coach with apprehension. So much depends on so many untried sophomores.

Howard came to Clemson in 1931 after playing on the 1930 Alabama Rose Bowl team. After serving nine years as line coach at Clemson he was elevated to head coach and his teams have won conference championships five times—1940, 1948, 1956, 1958 and 1959. Six times in the last 12 years Clemson has been to post-season bowls under Howard's guidance.

In his entire head coaching career Howard has won 115, lost 70 and tied 10. In seven years of ACC competition Howard has a 24-10-1 league mark and 46-23-3 overall record.

Century Club . . .

Nine coaches who are at major football institutions have now won 100 or more games in their career. Two of them—Bear Bryant and Johnny Vaught—joined the "Century Club" during the 1959 season. Frank Howard of the Clemson Tigers ranks sixth in the nation for the most wins in a career. Listed below are the "Century Club" members.

Bob Jones

Bob Jones has been around Clemson longer than Frank Howard but their association did not commence until Howard came here as line coach in 1931. Jones, who had been coaching for Josh Cody while still a student at Clemson, was kept on by new head coach Jess Neely and Jones has never left.

Banks McFadden

Banks McFadden has been called the greatest athlete the State of South Carolina ever produced. No one has stepped forward to deny this fact. He was named to both the All-American basketball and football teams in the calendar year 1939 and at the state track meet in 1940, he broke three track records and two of these still stand after hundreds of athletes have taken a shot at them.

The Great Falls great participated in the Chicago All-Star game in '40 and then played one year of pro ball with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

However, he returned to Clemson after that and has held various coaching positions such as freshman football, varsity basketball and head track and cross country. However, he now devotes his full time as defensive backfield coach in football.

He is a member of the All-time Cotton Bowl team and in 1939-40 was named the nation's most versatile athlete.

McFadden is married to the former "Aggie" Rigby of Manning and they are the parents of four daughters, Patsy, 14, Lil, 12, Marcia, 8 and Jan, 6.

1960 rules changes — by Charles W. Tucker, Jr.

● The Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association was apparently well satisfied with the rules which were in effect last year, as they have made few changes. There is only one change of any consequence and a couple of variations of rules that have been in effect for many years. This is a further step on the part of the Committee to simplify and standardize the rules that now exist.

This should be very good news to the spectator, as the constant changes each fall, in the already complex set of rules under which the game is played, leave him a little bewildered on Saturday afternoon. Probably the most ardent fan is the "Old Grad" who developed his love of the game somewhat earlier in school and college. The rules as he knew them, in most cases, went out with the Model T and it is quite a struggle for him to keep up with what has gone on since.

Football Coaches and Players alike will be very happy as they have very little time to spend on rules with the many varied types of offenses and defenses they must master if they are to put a winning team on the field.

With the exception of the usual re-writes for the purpose of clarification and simplification, the changes of importance are the following:

Coaching from the sidelines re-written to cover all forms of communication with players on the field except by substitutes entering the game.

The old rule reads as follows, "There shall be no coaching from the sidelines," and there was a fifteen yard penalty for this foul under the heading of Unsportsmanlike Conduct. This rule was very hard to enforce and for a very good reason. There are twenty-two football players on the field and there are four officials, sometimes five, to watch them. If the official is concentrating on the play and players, as he should be, he could not very well also concentrate on the "Bench" at the same time. Without eyes in the back of his head, it would be impossible to know who was shouting instructions to players on the field. They could very well be coming from the "Grandstand Quarterbacks" who usually give more advice during the game than the coaches anyway.

In the second place, a coach could very easily communicate with his Quarterback more subtly through a set of signals such as a third base coach gives the batter in a baseball game. He naturally wouldn't go through as many gyrations but he could cross or uncross his legs, put his hat on or take it off, fold his arms over his chest or let them hang at his sides, scratch his chin, pull his ear, rub his nose, and on ad infinitum.

From now on he will have to use that substitute to get the information on the field, as the new wording of the rule is very specific. "There shall be no communication in any form with players on the field except by substitutes entering the game."

The rule governing the illegal touching of a free kick has been amended to conform with the rule governing scrimmage kicks.

If a scrimmage kick is touched by a member of the kicking team, beyond the line of scrimmage, before it has been touched by a member of the receiving team it is a violation which gives the receiving team the option of taking the ball at the spot of touching or the ultimate result of the play, whichever is more favorable to them, providing there has been no intervening foul for which there is a penalty.

The rule goes on to say, however, that a player of the kicking team who is pushed or blocked into the ball is not to be deemed as having touched the ball unless it was with his hand.

This rule has not been extended to cover Free Kicks, i.e. the Kickoff or the Kick after a Safety which is governed by the Kickoff Rule.

One substitute may enter the game at any time between successive downs.

In order to fully understand this rules change, it might be well to review last year's Substitution Rule which in effect was as follows: A player who started any period or one who subsequently entered during the period was permitted to reenter once more during the same period. In other words any player could get into the game a minimum of eight times during the afternoon.

In addition there was what was known as the "Wild Card" substitution which permitted any player who had not used up his two entries to go back into the game any time between downs when the clock was stopped and he was not charged with an entry as long as he was the only substitute sent in by his Coach.

This year the rule has been changed and liberalized and will give the Coach ample opportunity to communicate with his players on the field. The "Wild Card" man may go in at any time between downs this year, regardless of whether or not he has used his two charged entries. He may also go in regardless of whether or not the clock is running and whether or not the ball has been declared "ready for play," as long as he doesn't interfere with the play or players in so doing.

It is obvious that timing is going to be of utmost importance in getting this single substitute into the game. The only restriction is that once he goes into the game he must stay in for one play; and once he comes out he must remain out for one play. Otherwise he could run in and out every other play.

By alternating him with another player, the Coach can have a messenger in on every play and should have no excuse for not complying with the rule this year which prohibits communicating with players on the field except by substitutes.

"What we have been and what we are is a source of great pride to us, but what we become will be the determining factor of our true worth."

This kind of forward looking by President Robert C. Edwards of Clemson College is setting the pattern of progress for this 4,000 student land-grant institution of South Carolina.

Clemson has served the educational, research and cultural needs of South Carolina and its people since it was founded in 1889, the result of a bequest to the state by Thomas G. Clemson, the first U. S. Commissioner of Agriculture.

This one-time all-male military college is in the midst of an expansion program that began in 1950. Its student body is now "civilian"—with required ROTC training for the first two classes and an advanced program for qualified juniors and seniors—and includes approximately 100 co-eds.

The 1970 enrollment projection envisions 8,000 students on this picturesque campus, once the 1,500-acre plantation of John C. Calhoun, eminent 19th century South Carolina statesman and vice president of the United States. Calhoun was also the father-in-law of Thomas G. Clemson.

"Through the years," says Dr. Edwards, a 1933 Clemson graduate who succeeded the late Dr. R. F. Poole to the Clemson presidency in 1958, "Clemson College has been the greatest single influence on the combined educational, scientific, cultural and public service development of our state. We will continue that accomplishment while providing for our youth the finest quality educational opportunities."

Dean of the College and academic overseer of five schools of agriculture, architecture, arts and sciences, engineering and textiles and the Graduate School is Dr. Jack K. Williams, a youthful, serious-minded academician who graduated from Emory and Henry and pursued graduate study in history at Emory University.

Long held in high repute by the nation's leading industries that seek the Clemson graduate, Clemson places the academic stress on curriculums designed for a quality educational product, and pursues a continuing policy of curricular evaluation to keep pace with the changing needs of industry, science and business. The Graduate School offers the doctor's degree in five fields of study and the master's in 25.

All curriculums are approved by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. In addition, the programs in engineering are accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development and those in Architecture by the National Architectural Accrediting Board.

The well-qualified Clemson faculty numbers nearly 300 professors. About 40 per cent of the faculty hold terminal degrees in their specialties.

Clemson encourages a high degree of student civilian responsibility. Student government is administered under the Dean of Student Affairs by the student-elected president and vice president of the student body and a council of nine seniors and the presidents of the junior, sophomore and freshman classes. The judiciary and legislative branches of student government are also elected by the student body.

Physical additions to the campus since 1950 include a 2,000-student living unit, the R. F. Poole Agricultural Center, and new buildings for agricultural engineering, architecture, civil engineering, physics, classroom building and faculty and married student housing.

The capital outlay of that expansion approaches $22,400,000, financed principally through student tuition and revenue bonds. Two buildings, Olin Hall for ceramic engineering and S. B. Earle Hall for chemical engineering and metallurgy were gifts from the Olin Foundation, Inc., of New York. The two grants totaled nearly two million dollars.

The most immediate campus development schedule also calls for construction of a mathematics building and new dormitories to keep pace with enrollment and a library to accommodate the needs of an ever-growing student body. The proposed library will house for permanent preservation the papers and souvenirs of the Hon. James F. Byrnes, whose dedication to his country and its people includes service as Justice of the United States Supreme Court, U. S. Secretary of State, U. S. Congressman and Senator and Governor of South Carolina.

As a land-grant college of the State, Clemson is headquarters for and administers the Agriculture Extension Service, the South Carolina Experiment Station, and the state-wide services of fertilizer inspection and analysis, livestock-poultry health, crop pest control and seed certification.

Also located on the campus and conducting research in cooperation with the College are: the Division of Technical Services of the American Cotton Manufacturers Institute; the Southeastern Cotton Ginning Research Laboratory; the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, Cotton Division; the Agricultural Marketing Service Research Division; and the Federal Extension Service.

The Clemson College Engineering Experiment Station is aiming its efforts at the industrial development of the State. Research directors are at work in the Schools of Engineering and Textiles.

Less than two miles northeast of the campus proper is the 200-acre Ravenel Research Center of which the Saco-Lowell Research and Development Center (textile machinery) is the first installation. Nine choice sites are available to industry and the vision for the Ravenel Research Center is one of diversified industrial research.

Thomas G. Clemson said, "a state owes its youth training which delivers into their hands the moral and intellectual blueprint for a richer, fuller life."

The Clemson administration emphasizes the importance of scholarship and excellence in education and at the same time is devoted to advancing Clemson as the leading force for the educational, research, industrial, business and cultural development of its state.

BANKS McFADDEN
1939 All-America Halfback
1959 Football Hall of Fame

Banks McFadden

Even though the honors Banks McFadden won in athletics at Clemson number more than a score, he maintains his greatest honor was being voted Clemson's most valuable player by his teammates of the 1939 Cotton Bowl team.

However, McFadden says being voted into the Football Hall of Fame is something all coaches and players dream of. When he received notification of his election to this select group he said he felt "very humble" receiving this high honor.

Although James "Bonnie" Banks McFadden was officially inducted into the Football Hall of Fame last December in New York, he has never been so recognized before his native South Carolinians.

Since today's crowd is expected to be the largest ever to see a football game in South Carolina, it seems only fitting that Banks be presented his Hall of Fame Award before the most rabid football fans in Palmettoland—those who annually see the Clemson-South Carolina gridiron classic.

Banks' Clemson career began in the fall of 1936 when he matriculated from the small community of Great Falls, little realizing that he was to rank with the greatest collegiate athletes of all time before receiving his degree in vocational agricultural education in June of 1940.

A pretty fair country basketball player but no ball of fire in high school football and baseball, Banks was shifted from his usual backfield position to end with the 1936 Clemson Cubs, but rejoined the "express boys" his sophomore year.

He saw limited action as a varsity wingback his first year (1937) and alternated with a returning All-State tailback in 1938 and began to come into his own.

Bonnie Banks gained 342 yards rushing in 66 attempts, completed 10 of 20 passes for an additional 169 yards to top the strong Clemson team of that season in total offense; and he punted 29 times for a 39-yard average. And in 1939, his senior year, he sparked Clemson to the Cotton Bowl with his great running, passing, punting and defensive play.

During his final season with the Tiger gridiron machine, McFadden gained 436 yards running in 72 carries, completed 29 of 67 passes for 546 yards and averaged 42 yards on 56 punts. He caught one pass for a touchdown and led the team in pass interceptions with three.

Largely on the strength of the Clemson tailback's defensive left half play in the Cotton Bowl against undefeated Boston College, Clemson won that game, 6-3, and McFadden still rates a berth on the all-time Cotton Bowl team.

He is the only South Carolina college player in history to make most of the recognized All-American teams—Associated Press, United Press, Grantland Rice, Coaches Board, etc. He was one of the stars of the annual Chicago All-Star game the following August (1940) and in his one year (1940) of professional football he finished second in ground gaining in compiling the highest rushing average in the National Football League.

McFadden's fame was just as great on the basketball court. Three straight years he was named to the All-Southern first team quintet. In 1939, his junior year, Clemson upset all favorites in winning the conference championship, and he was named first team, All-American, by Chuck Taylor's group and the Helms Foundation. McFadden is the only South Carolina college player to be so honored in history.

Just as he is regarded to be the most outstanding football and basketball player in South Carolina collegiate history, he still rates as the finest all-round track star to be produced by the Palmetto State. His junior year McFadden averaged 11 points a meet in competing as a high and low hurdler, broad jumper, javelin thrower and 100-yard dashman.

The following year he dropped the javelin and 100-yard dash for the discus and shot put and increased his point average to 22 points a meet.

He ended his collegiate athletic career in a blaze of glory, setting state track records in the 120 yard high hurdles (14.6 seconds), 220 yard low hurdles (23.9 seconds) and broad jump (23 feet, 3 $\frac{7}{8}$ inches). The two latter marks still stand today after 16 state meets. The high hurdle mark was not broken until 1957.

For his successes in football, basketball and track, McFadden was chosen the nation's "most versatile athlete" for the 1939-40 school year.

Today Banks serves as defensive back field coach of the Tigers after seeing service as head coach in basketball, track and cross country and freshman football coach since graduation.

He is married to the former "Aggie" Rigby of Manning and is the father of four daughters—Patsy, Lil, Marcia and Jan.

Another group of Gamecock players are, starting in lower left hand corner and reading clockwise, tackle Frank Staley, halfback Melvin Harris, guard Ken Derriso, quarterback Buddy Bennett, guard Jake Bodkin, center Richard Lomas, tackle Joel Goodrich, center Doug Hatcher, end Conley Taylor, tackle Harold Jones, guard Howard Sohm and halfback Jack Morris. In the center is a picture of the University of South Carolina library.

This Is Football's Hall of Fame

There are 127 players and 45 coaches in the Football Hall of Fame, selected since 1951 by The Honors Court of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. They have been chosen from the more than 1,000,000 who have played and coached football in our American colleges. A player becomes eligible for consideration only after ten years after graduation, a coach three years after retirement. Here is the list of gridiron immortals already chosen to the Hall of Fame:

On days when the elements aren't too bad, Clemson's football team enters Memorial Stadium down the east bank on the world's largest college banner. The unique banner, presented to Clemson by Wunda Weve Carpet Co., of Greenville, weighs 527 pounds, is 104 feet long and 13 feet wide. The rug is exhibited at all Clemson home games and it followed the Tigers to the Sugar Bowl game January a year ago.

Clemson Football Network

Clemson's Football Network begins its seventh consecutive year of broadcasting this season, and it has proved to be one of the most successful athletic-operated networks anywhere.

From a meager beginning the network has grown by leaps and bounds and last year averaged having just over 42 stations a game for 10 games. Stations in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee have been on the network in the past and it has also served the "Pick of Dixie" series.

Jimmy Coggins and Ed Osborne will again handle the broadcasting on the network this fall. Coggins serves as the play-by-play commentator while Osborne gives interesting pre-game and post-game comments as well as sidelights throughout the contests.

Coggins, who is the dean of South Carolina sports broadcasters, is owner of Station WKDK in Newberry and is co-owner with Osborne with Station WBCU in Union. They are co-owners of Station WAGS in Bishopville.

Coggins broke into radio 26 years ago with WSPA in Spartanburg. He also worked at WAIM in Anderson before going to Newberry in 1949. Prior to joining the network in 1954 he broadcast the Clemson games during the seasons of 1936-37-38-47-48-49. In 1950-51-52 he did the "Game of the Week" on Station WIS, Columbia.

Osborne served as director of both the Clemson news bureau and the sports publicity office from 1947 through the spring of 1950. A Clemson graduate, he left his dual post and joined Station WMSC in Columbia as sales representative and sports director. Since early 1953, he has been with WBCU.

Osborne is currently serving as president of the South Carolina Broadcasters Assn., while Coggins was singled out this past spring by being voted the "Sports Announcer of the Year" in South Carolina.

1960-61 Basketball . . .

Press Maravich has four years of Clemson basketball under his belt now and in each succeeding season, he has seen some improvement in his Tigers. However, he hopes to see the biggest stride made by his cage forces this season.

A tough 25-game schedule has been arranged with home-and-home dates slated with each Atlantic Coast Conference team, plus Furman and Florida State. Single games are planned with Marshall, Citadel, Texas, Rice and Davidson.

In their only tournament appearance the Tigers will open the season Dec. 2-3 in the Kent Invitational at Kent, Ohio, with Kent State, Syracuse and Massachusetts.

Three of the starters from last year's 10-16 club are back, led by all-conference Choppy Patterson. Patterson, as a sophomore last season, had the highest scoring average on the club, 16.4.

Returning with Patterson are Ed Krajack and Tommy Mahaffey. Krajack is a senior, Mahaffey a junior.

Help is also expected from senior Bill Warren who missed last season due to a broken arm suffered in late November. He had a 9.2 scoring average as a junior. Another probable starter is Speight Bird, 6-7 sophomore who was held out.

Coming up from the freshman squad are Larry Seitz (6-4), Mike Bohonak (6-3), Chuck Narvin (6-0), and Carl Ward (6-2).

Reserves joining these are Dave Wallace, Jim Leshock, Earle Maxwell, Bob Benson and Bill Bonzulak.
